AS A U.S. SPORTSMEN'S ALLIANCE AFFILIATE, YOUR GROUP TAKES A LEADERSHIP ROLE IN DEFENDING OUR OUTDOOR HERITAGE

U.S. SPORTSMEN'S ALLIANCE

A WATCHDOG for sportsmen's rights in all 50 states, the U.S. Sportsmen's Alliance serves a variety of critical functions:

PROACTIVE across America defending hunting, fishing, trapping and shooting rights, access and opportunities at federal, state and local levels.

DEFENDS sporting dog owners against the Humane Society of the United States and others in the animal rights lobby from radical puppy mill and other dog bills.

PROTECTS funds received by state and federal agencies from the sale of hunting, trapping and fishing licenses against raids to fund other programs.

WORKS to keep wildlife management and conservation under the control of trained professionals, and not politicians or groups with hidden agendas.

DEVELOPED and promotes the Families Afield hunter recruitment program in partnership with the National Shooting Sports Foundation, the National Wild Turkey Federation, and supported by the NRA and the Congressional Sportsmen Foundation.

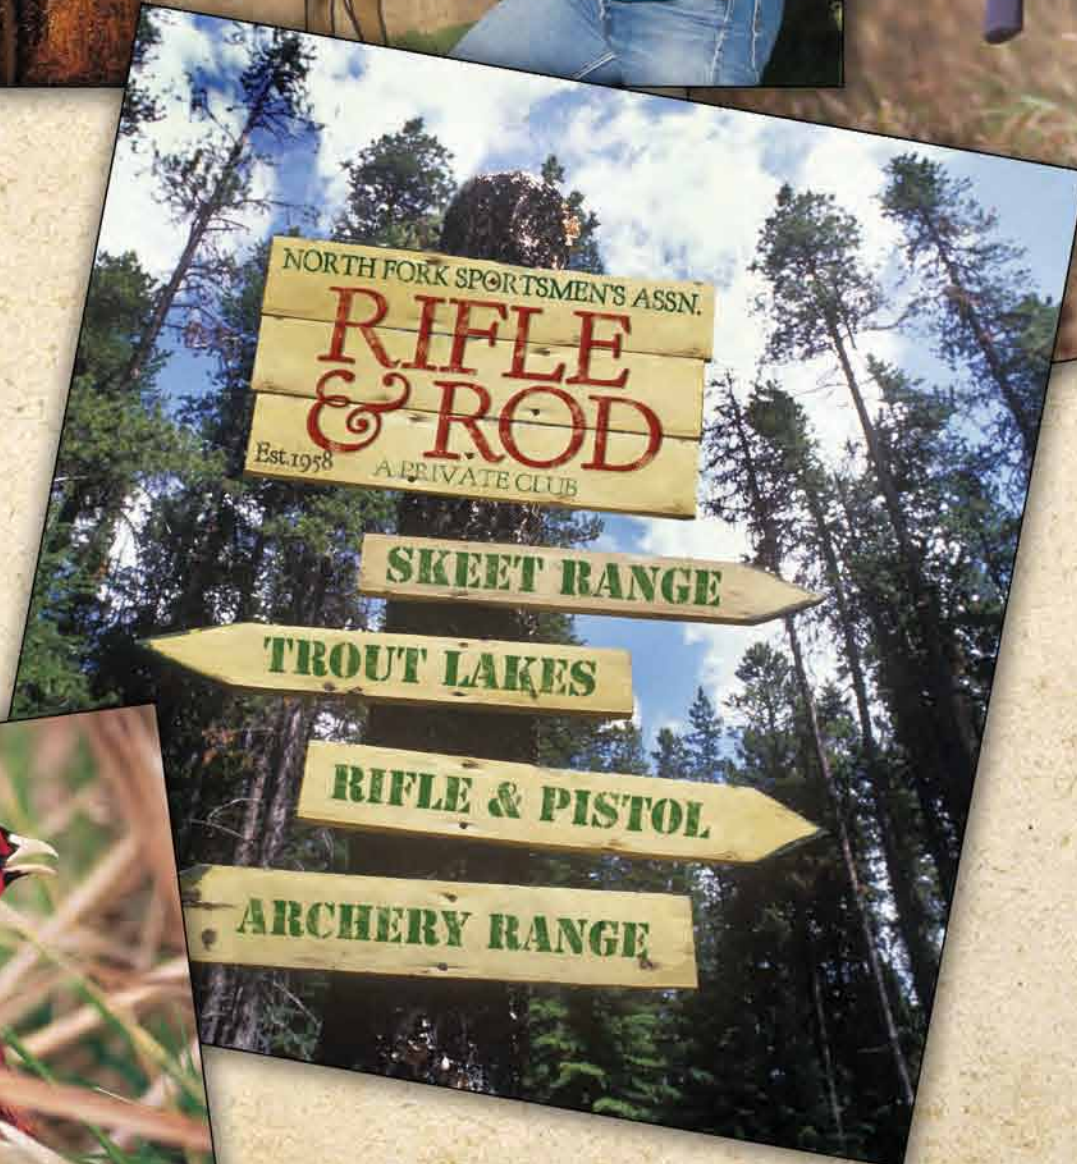

CREATES and introduces legislation in Congress to protect and enhance hunting access and opportunities on National Wildlife Refuges and Bureau of Land Management and the vast U.S. Forest Service lands.

Membership in USSA unifies diverse collections of sportmen – from duck clubs to deer leases to archery associations to local rod & gun clubs – into a powerful political voice for our outdoor heritage.

50 The USSA fights battles in all 50 states.

TOGETHER, WE HAVE IMPORTANT WORK TO DO.

Organized sportsmen have done – and continue to do – the lion's share of conservation work today. In local rod and gun clubs, archery associations and in local chapters of species-specific groups, these hunters have found great power in numbers as they work to provide suitable habitat that ensures the abundance of countless species. These same grass-roots organizations lead the charge against extremists who would take away our outdoor heritage.

The U.S. Sportsmen's Alliance Club network unifies these diverse groups. Together, we project our commitment to our hunting, fishing and trapping legacy in a single powerful voice. As a united front, when we lobby legislators in Washington, DC and all 50 states, they listen. We can rapidly muster legal representation when the rights of sportsmen are threatened.

As a USSA-affiliated club, your group's clout will stretch far beyond your own backyard ensuring our outdoor heritage will be around for future generations.

With the added clout comes special privileges. Clubs in the USSA Network qualify for cost-effective insurance to cover everything from simple liability to special events. A custom club web page linked to the USSA website keeps your members up to speed on both local and national issues.

Affiliated clubs also get a potential boost from various fund-raising opportunities we facilitate and through special kits we offer for creating family outdoor learning experiences.
